Hamlet doesn't like it when he has to go and stay in the homes of other people. What sort of home do you think the royal white elephant would really like to live in.

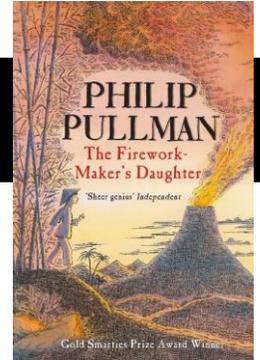

Design a new home for Hamlet. What would you need to think about? You could find out about elephants and give him a 'natural' habitat or maybe you could plan it based on what a member of the royal household might like.

Label each different area and any special features. Then write a setting description.
