Who Are Pirates?

A pirate is someone who attacks or robs ships. Pirates have existed for thousands of years but the 'Golden Age' of piracy was in the 17th and 18th centuries. During this time, more than 5000 ruthless pirates used to loot ships around the world, particularly in seas around the Caribbean and the coast of Africa.

Whilst watching the video, think about what Pirates were greedy about.

What Did Pirates Steal?

Pirates are well known for stealing treasure, such as gold and silver. In reality, pirates also stole many other things. They often ransacked ships for food, such as rice and fish, so that they didn't go hungry.

Pirate ships were well-used, so pirates would sometimes raid other ships for materials such as ropes, wood and sails to carry out essential repairs. In addition, they stole other useful items like candles, soap and cooking pots.

Trade ships carried goods to sell. Pirates would attack these ships and take goods that they could sell on, such as spices, cocoa, cotton and wood. They would also take valuable weapons and tools, such as cannons and gunpowder, from other ships they encountered.

What Did Pirates Eat and Drink?

Pirates went to sea for a long time. For the first few weeks at sea, they would have had plenty of fresh food to eat, such as meat, vegetables and cheese. But after many weeks and months, the food would have gone off and become mouldy. Spices and herbs would have been used to disguise the taste of rotten food. They also used to eat hardtack biscuits, dried beans and salted beef.

Pirates usually drank beer rather than water because, after a while, their water would turn green! Rum was also a very popular pirate drink and would keep much longer than water. Grog was another drink enjoyed by pirates – a mixture of water and rum.

I can plan a poem entitled 'Blinded by Greed'.

Refrain:

The pirates were blinded by greed

One cold, damp day in a fishing village,
A ship sailed in, set to pillage!

The pirates were blinded by greed.

They charged menacingly through the streets,
Stripping the butchers of all their meats,

The pirates were blinded by greed.

Thursday 13th January 2022

I can write a poem entitled 'Blinded by Greed'.

Refrain: It was soon to be the pirates' end!

It was a treasure map that they had found
As they were digging in the ground
It was soon to be the pirates' end!

They studied the map to see where to go
And started their journey on the river's flow
It was soon to be the pirates' end!

Out onto the vast oceans they sailed
"We'll be the richest pirates!" they wailed
It was soon to be the pirates' end!
