Scene 1 - The Study

The drawing room of Lady and Lord Montague, which is furnished with plush carpets, silk curtains and beautifully carved antique furniture. Lord Montague is sitting on a velvet sofa, smoking a pipe and reading the paper. Lady Montague is sitting at a grand piano, trying but failing to play a melody.

Lady Montague: Try as I might, I simply cannot get this blessed melody right!

(slamming her hands down on the piano keys loudly and frustratedly)

Lord Montague: You are trying too hard, darling. Relax, look at the notes and let your fingers find their way to the right notes. Stop trying to get it right. Just feel the music.

Lady Montague: (pushing a strand of hair from her face wearily) Yes. Perhaps you are right.

Looking out of the palace window, Nurse Annie turned to Greta and asked anxiously, "Do you think they'll survive the journey?"

Greta looked at her sadly, "I don't know. They will have to pass through the Forest of Fumbles."

Nurse Annie walked over to Greta and comfortingly whispered, "They are strong and clever. They will make it."

A series of horizontal blue lines for handwriting practice, with a vertical orange line on the left side acting as a margin.

A Holiday at the Beach

The sun was shining. The sand was so hot it stung your feet. Ben sat on the beach, eating an ice cream. Strawberry, his favourite.

“Let me have a lick,” his sister, Marcia, asked.

“Maybe,” said Ben, and he continued to eat the ice-cream.

“Please,” said Marcia.

Ben ignored her. There was no way she was going to get any, he thought.

“Please, Ben...” she said.

Ben took an extra big lick of ice-cream. “Yum,” he said.

Marcia scowled. She really hated her brother some times. She went to snatch the ice-cream from him, but it fell – plop! - onto the sand.

Ben was furious. “Marcia! You little-”

“I’ll tell Mum!” warned Marcia.
