Design and Technology - My Caribbean Street Food!

To link to the DT learning in school, we want to see you plan for the opening of your own Caribbean street food stall.

You must:

- Find at least 2 recipes that you think would be successful and present them in an engaging way.
- Design your food stand - how will you entice people to buy your food?

You could:

- Think about how much each element would cost (ingredients, power etc.), like a real entrepreneur, and work out how much you would have to sell your dishes for to make a profit!
- Create a menu with pricing, along with images of your dishes.
- Make the dishes yourself to try out!

THIS HALF TERM, WE ARE LEARNING ABOUT:

- Physical processes in Science
- The anthology of stories The Thief in the Village by James Berry in Literacy to inspire our writing, along with looking at recipes by Levi Roots and exploring Caribbean poetry.
- Caribbean recipes in DT.
- Statistics, converting units of measure and calculating area, perimeter and volume in Maths.
- Coding using MakeCode in Computing.

Maths - Statistics!

We have been studying statistics over the past couple of weeks and we would now like to see you put your skills to the test!

Collect data about something you are interested in...that could be the number of football teams in different countries, make of cars along your street, your family and friends' favourite chocolate bars. Anything!

Record your data in a tally chart and then present it in a line graph or pie chart. Can you use percentages in your pie chart?

Literacy - Poetry!

We are going to be studying Benjamin Zephaniah's poetry this half term. He is a local poet, growing up and living in Handsworth, with Caribbean heritage.

There are many other Caribbean poets, though!

Choose one of these poets and read the 2 poems suggested in brackets.

- Valerie Bloom (Two Seasons, Granny Is...)
- John Agard (Checking Out Me History, Flag)
- Grace Nichols (Lady Winter's Rap, Cat-Rap)
- James Berry (Childhood Tracks, Isn't My Name Magical?)

Then choose a theme (the seasons, unity, determination or peace) and write your own poem in the style of the poet you chose.
